GLANCE

Grade: IV

*'Celebrating Festivals Is About Embracing Joy
With Family And Friends.'*

Dear Parent,

Greetings!

As we step into the new semester, we sincerely thank you for your support in helping students smoothly complete the Mid-Term Assessments. Building on this spirit of cooperation, the theme for October is 'Embracing Diversity & Inclusion', with the core value of 'Respect for Different Cultures'. Together, let us recognize the richness of our differences and the strength we discover when we come together. Every individual is unique and these differences make our world vibrant and meaningful. True inclusion ensures that everyone has the opportunity to participate, regardless of background, appearance or beliefs. Our students have shown commendable effort and their results will soon be shared through 'Together We Can'.

Carrying this thought forward, October also ushers in the festive season. Navratri begins with devotion, Dussehra inspires the triumph of good over evil and Gandhi Jayanti reminds us of the enduring values of truth and non-violence. The celebrations continue with Diwali, a festival of sharing and togetherness, Chhath Puja, which highlights our bond with nature and Bhai Dooj, a reminder to express gratitude to our brothers for their love and protection.

In harmony with these celebrations, we are pleased to share the October Planner, designed to balance academics with festivities. May our children enjoy the joy of the season while continuing to learn and grow each day.

We are sharing the October Planner to ensure a perfect balance between academics and festivities. Enjoy, but learn too!

POSITIVE PARENTING

*'Festivals Are Living Classrooms
Where Children Learn Values Beyond Books.'*

This month, let us pause to reflect on the true meaning of festivals. Beyond rituals and celebrations, festivals remind us that divinity is the real source of happiness. As parents, you play a vital role in nurturing social values in your child. This is the perfect time to share the richness of our heritage and inspire children to spread joy, kindness and positivity.

Here are a few ways to help your child embrace the true spirit of festivals:

- 1. Cultivate kindness and empathy: Encourage your child to use polite words such as “please” and “thank you,” to speak respectfully and to show concern for others. Involve them in small acts of compassion to make kindness a natural habit.
- 2. Draw lessons from stories: Narrate the Ramayana to help your child understand the timeless difference between right and wrong. Celebrate their good choices and guide them calmly when they make mistakes.
- 3. Foster love and affection: Teach your child the importance of expressing care for family and friends. When you openly share love and warmth, they will feel confident to do the same.
- 4. Encourage respect for elders: Remind your child of the wisdom and blessings elders bring into their lives. Motivate them to listen attentively and engage in meaningful conversations with grandparents and seniors.
- 5. Celebrate through sharing: Inspire your child to spread happiness by showing gratitude to community helpers. Simple gestures of giving, along with stories of generosity and diversity, can nurture a lifelong spirit of sharing.

The Bottom Line

It is never too early to instill values that shape character. While teaching and explaining these lessons is important, children learn most effectively by observing the actions of those around them. As parents, when you practice what you preach, your child naturally absorbs these values and carries them forward in their own life.

Warm Regard,

Principal
