

GNOSIS @ ST. JOHN'S SCHOOL GREATER NOIDA WEST

VOLUME- 4

2022-23

Chairman's Desk

Dear Parents, Teachers and Students,

One of the greatest Indian teachers, Swami Vivekananda believed in the infinite potential of humankind. According to him, “Education is the manifestation of perfection already in men.” But, it is also true that no educational methodology can have its desired effect without the ability of the person disposed to employ it, that is, the teacher.

Knowledge is a power that can transform all spheres of your life and activity. Knowledge is a powerful tool or instrument that can create or destroy all life on earth. It is the knowledge that helps us to distinguish between humans and animals. It is an ability that we use to empower and help others. Most importantly, knowledge liberates us. Someone can steal your riches but they can't rob you off of your knowledge. Understanding the importance of education we @ St. John's believe to cater the knowledge so deep rooted in our each student that even if they move out of St. John's the values and the wisdom guide them to the path of glory.

I hope and pray students of our school will scale great heights and keep the St. John's flag flying high wherever they tread.

I congratulate the Editorial board of Gnosis for taking us through the journey of the entire session once again and rekindle the moments.

God bless you all!

Principal's Desk

"Give Her A Day "
-Lisa Tasker

What can you give to one small girl?
A diamond ring, a baton to twirl?
A pretty pink dress with lots of bows,
Or dainty sandals that show her toes.
A walk in the woods, a romp in the park,
A shopping trip from dusk till dark?
A shiny new bike, a kitten for a pet?
No, there is still time for such things,
Yet.....
Give her a day of her very own.
Just one small girl and her Dad alone.
Give her the gift that only you can,
The companionship of her old man.
Games are out grown and toys decay,
But she will never forget
If you give her a day.

Dear parents,

For our children we often keep looking for material things they will enjoy, or things they will look good in, or things their friends have and they would like to have as well. The most precious gift that a parent can present to their child is YOUR TIME. Your work, your house hold chores, your service to the society nothing matters more than your relationship with your children. These moments of togetherness will always give solace and satisfaction to everyone.

Dear kids,

Often your parents want to spend time with you, but are unable to do so because of lots of other things that they have to take care of. Try to take the lead yourself by going to them and helping in whatever they are doing. It may relieve their stress and give both of you some extra time to relax and build a strong bond among yourself.

Happy Parenting!!! Graceful Growing!!!

An Inevitable Interview with Dhruv Senger

1. What motivated you to excel?

Answer: My dream is to become an IIT-ian and achieve a better life, and that motivated me to excel. It was also propelled by my parents and teachers.

2. What draws a line between mission, objective, vision, and aims?

Answer: - Visions and aims indicate what place a person wants to be in the future. whereas missions and objectives are steps taken towards achieving that vision.

3. What has been your strength through the journey?

Answer: The people around me who were supportive and encouraging were my greatest strength. I believe my ability to learn more in less time has also contributed to my achievement.

4. Weaknesses refrain us from success. Were there any that you counterfeited?

Answer: Yes, my greatest antagonist was my lack of focus; I struggled a lot because of it. I still feel if I had focused a little more, I would have achieved a better result.

5. How can we read something in an exam without stress?

Answer: There is no probability of a stress-free board examination, but the stress can definitely be curbed by more practice and readiness.

6. What is better, individual or group studies?

Answer: I personally prefer individual studies, as group studies were distractive for me. I'd rather sit in a room with my books alone and prepare, books are really your best friend.

7. What ideally helps in a large spectrum, cramming or understanding the concepts?

Answer: Of course, It is the understanding of concepts.

8. What is the most difficult subject for you, and how did you cope with that one?

Answer: For me, it was Hindi; I really had to work hard towards it, give it extra time. It's just about how you want to take things.

9. Any suggestions for the juniors?

Answer: Yes, be a smart worker rather than a hard worker. Understanding the concepts and learning pointers is better than cramming.

I LOVE MONSOONS

I love Monsoon, I love monsoon.
Cloudy sky everywhere,
Water drops touch the earth's heart.
I love monsoon, I love monsoon
Fishes are splashing,

I play in the rain
With my friends
I love monsoon, I love monsoon

I make a boat
One day my boat will go to
In the Ocean
I love monsoon, I love monsoon

NATURE

Everything is nature
God gave us this feature
Bird flies in the sky
And mountains are so high
Trees are green
And water is so clean
We are not kind to it
We are only harming it
But it never betrays
It always gives us right way
Please leave it as it is
Don't try to play with it.

I am a Little Unicorn,
The bravest that was ever born,

I dance and jump over the moon
And shoot rainbows in the gloom,

I am unique and magical
To tell the world that
Being different is fabulous

Dreams do come true,
Just believe in you.

MUSIC

Music is something that can heal you,
Music is something that you can feel,
It's always the people, who make you sad,

But music will always help you cheer
When you are out of your mind,
Music is of very kind,
And can make you feel fine,
In only a matter of time.

When you feel lost in the old,
And there is no one to hold,
The music makes you enjoy the company of your own,
And then having yourself become gold.

When there is nobody to accompany,
And being lonely is not funny,
When you wonder for someone you can trust,
Music holds the position of first.

When you are going through the worst,
And its words are just too bright,
To fit the situation of thrust,
That it makes you slight,
Even in the darkness of the night.

CHILDHOOD

Childhood, it never goes, I believe
Even when you grow up,
It often peeks.
It peeks so blissfully
It tip-toes into your heart
Relieves and assuages you
To make you so calm.

Seeing the children around,
Even though it's hard to believe
I catch a glimpse of myself
Standing tall three feet.

My heart pounds when I recall
How I danced to each sound.
I recall the times when,
Smallest of effort could make me happy.
The time when I used to be,
Always dancing, bouncy and chirpy.
I relive the smile, that could have faded
When I see children playing all day round in the parks.
I laugh at myself silly,

How afraid I was of dark.
How innocently I would eat veggies at the fear of a spook.
These memories keep you hooked forever.
Childhood, it slowly tip-toes and goes,

Leaving you reminiscing the memoirs.
The beautifully written pages of life,
Only if, I could rewind and live them forever.

कर लो पर्यावरण सुधार

वृक्ष काट, कर ली नादानी,
सूख गया धरा का पानी।
सूखे कुएँ, नदियाँ, तालाब,
हुआ वातावरण पूरा खराब।
वर्षा कम, गरमी भर-भर के,
व्याकुल पशु-पक्षी, नर-नारी।
वृक्षों को हमने कटवाया,
हटी शीश से शीतल छाया।
आओ सब मिलकर वृक्ष लगाए,
फिर से लौटे घनी घटाएँ।
विपुल अन्न का हो उत्पादन,
विपदा का हो सके समाधान।
पेड़, पानी जीवन का आधार,
कर लो पर्यावरण सुधार ॥

शुद्ध हवा सबको देता।

A MOMENT OF TRUTH

We all have some moments in our lives that we have always dreamt of. Today I will relive one of those, I had always dreamt of getting featured in KBC. Although I didn't get a chance to be a participant but my brother made me feel proud and honored, not only he became a participant but also got a whooping cash prize. Well done!! Baby brother, I keep my head high and chest enlarged to be your brother. He really made my dream come true and that was my moment of truth when I saw the legend Mr. Amitabh Bachchan right in front of my eyes, I didn't want to blink even once.

This is one time of my life which will not go out of my mind ever. The show that I had been watching for six years in a row, sitting on that set live and seeing my brother face Mr. Amitabh Bachchan on the hot seat was another level. Frankly speaking I really don't have the right words probably, way beyond explanation, mesmerizing to the core. The very famous KBC music gave me goosebumps, it all felt like living a dream.

Wow!! Everything was the best from the set to the music to the people and most importantly the incomparable superstar. It felt like a saga, which would never end for me.

Graffiti is a public good, even as it challenges the law?

Greetings everyone!

I am Abhishree Shah, a student of class 10 of St. John's school and here are my views on 'graffiti' whether it should be legal or illegal. I hope my article also helps on the public awareness.

Graffiti in India is considered illegal, and is not valued the way it should be. Most graffiti is considered as crimes and people are penalized with a good fine and can also lead to jail sentences. Well worked graffiti is a typical collection of tremendous hard work, patience, creativeness and sense of collectiveness towards cultural belonging, and is colorful and bold. This can only be done by individuals who are artistic and well trained for this. It also shows urbanization of cities. It turns bare walls into eye-catching expressions. This also builds community as well as character. Graffiti can also be idea-based which can also be an expression towards collective thoughts.

Although media has shaped our perception towards graffiti a lot. It also has built a negative perception towards people. The appearance of graffiti often encourages crime and criminal mentality in youths of the country. And therefore the risk of this sort of mindset increases. The removal of graffiti is very expensive and this amount can be used towards the development of the country. Graffiti increases pollution as the sprays used in designing them have harmful and toxic fumes which destruct the nature. It creates an inappropriate vision towards the youth. India also highly faces littering, poster pastings for marketing issues which spoils graffiti.

These were my views on graffiti and I think people should be more educated about graffiti through media and public awareness so that the government can bring graffiti into consideration by holding all the aspects together in a form.

Commonwealth Games, does it really represent true spirit of games?

Having a historical colonial past experienced by India, the relevance of commonwealth games in today's context has always been a topic of debates & controversies. While, in last few years India has come up as a shining country, recent dropping of shooting game from the list of participating sports has really opened up a Pandora's box.

Athlete Manu Bhaker said earlier this year that it looked like they were being taken for granted. Though she was talking this in the context of non-inclusion of shooting but actually it was not mere a statement rather she might have been making a larger historical point. Our country's hockey federation also insisted upon a plaintive tone in their letter to the CWG about their threatening for boycotting the event last year.

The letter from Hockey federation of India entailed that such discriminatory restrictions were not imposed on Indian athletes and officials during the recent Tokyo Olympic Games. The CWG may be the third-largest multi-sporting extravaganza in the world, covering athletes across a population of 2.5 billion people, a third of the global population, but the geographical ambit of the event has always been in flux.

India had been an important part of participating countries who had boycotted the 1986 CWG against Margaret Thatcher's United Kingdom's refusal to cut sporting ties with apartheid South Africa. It was evident that then games had looked like a whites-only one as a result, perhaps reflecting how they had originally been envisioned - white rulers using sports as a tool to keep their dominions under check.

This year India has totalled a stellar show by her athletes, who saw them amass a tally of 22 gold medals, and over-all 61 medals during the recently concluded Commonwealth Games 2022 in Birmingham. Though India finished fourth in the CWG 2022 medal tally, behind Australia, England and Canada, it is high time for India & other participating historical colonies of UK to rethink about taking this game further.

The 'Black Lives Matter' movement has served as a catalyst in a rising wave of anti-colonial sentiment across the world in the last couple of years.

Indian Olympic Association (IOA) president Narinder Batra in 2019 advocated that India should withdraw from the CWG because not only the level of competition is low but also the realm continues to mistreat India, the association's largest member in terms of population. "Yet, they don't consider India seriously. There are 13 committees and there isn't one Indian in them. There is no Indian on the executive board.

Hence, as a matter of fact, it is in the wider interest of India to shed its colonial past & shine through true colours of freedom and that will be one of the best ways to celebrate, "Azadi ka Amrit Mahotsav". India should start its own games of south east Asian countries like it did for cricket as IPL.

Monsoon – Blessing, and Curse

Monsoon is that time of the year that is highly awaited by a maximum number of people. It often begins in the middle of June and lasts through September. During this time of year, dark, ominous skies, which represent the eagerly anticipated rain, are frequently seen. When the monsoon season begins, people prepare themselves and tuck their raincoats and umbrellas before leaving the house. It is a beautiful season to hear children dancing and giggling in the rain, wearing raincoats, and entering the school building. Students are more eager than anyone when it's the rainy season.

However, if we look at the broader perspective, is monsoon a blessing or curse? To name it could be a blessing as well as a curse. Wondering how? Let's take a dip dive into the depth of monsoon reais

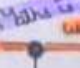

For farmers all around the country as well as far agriculture, the monsoon is a blessing. Farmers eagerly await the monsoon because rains are crucial for the development of crops. The fields, crops, trees, and plants all spring to life during the monsoon. A "sea of green" awakens the entirety of nature. The timing of the hour is crucial because a delayed monsoon can lead to drought, which has a severe impact on crops. Despite the use of sophisticated farming techniques, the monsoon rains serve as a reservoir to farmers and their fields, which in turn provide us with food. In the monsoon, a wide range of plants, vegetables, – and crops flourish. At this time, lovely flowers also bloom.

Counseling – Nutrition for your mind

The other day I had somebody come up to me in the middle of a group conversation and say that person XYZ has everything in life. They're school toppers, their parents are rich, and they have good clothes, a nice phone, and practically everything that a person of their age would ever want. So they clearly don't need therapy, right? Then a couple of days later I was sitting with people much older than me who were discussing their children, and in no time a comparison started. The result was that the good kids were the ones who obeyed blindly and the one's that even politely questioned an 'order' or 'command' were considered "difficult". When I suggested the parents go take a family therapy session to help them sort out their family feuds, I was thrown aback with the line that said, "Are we going to learn how to raise our own children from somebody else?"

These incidents just made me realize what a taboo therapy has been in our society. But I don't completely blame anyone. We as humans have a tendency of questioning and/or reject everything we don't understand. I think the concept of therapy, in fact, psychology as a subject in itself is such a thing for most people out there. They simply don't understand it and so it becomes easier to dismiss it than to put in the effort to actually understand it. I do not wish to educate everyone in this article on how important it is to treat our minds the way we treat our bodies. Simply because I feel an article this small would not even scratch the surface, to begin with. All I wanted to do was share my experience and leave it to you to ponder about it a little. I would end this just with one line...

"We've been so busy concentrating on walnuts, almonds, broccoli, fish, and what not for our brain that we have completely forgotten to feed our minds. Let's take a step to nourish it too so we can actually be healthy in the truest sense."
